

Heart Pouch Pocket

At last I have managed to make a demo for the Heart Basket number 1 (aka pouch) free template. I could have done it sooner, as it really took no time at all to do. The picture looks a bit washed out because the sun was blasting through my window but you get the gist of it.

I've simply cut my heart from card and covered it with some nice spotty paper. I tend to prefer pink to red for my heart themed projects but you could do this in red/black or whatever.

I've added a punched scallop and circle, with a suitable message and finished off with some silver cord. The handle sits crossways on this pouch, which gives a nice look. Very quick, easy to make and quite sweet. I just need to find someone appreciative to give it to now!

If you want to make this project, you can get this template on the Free Stuff Pages under 'Boxes'. This slim basket is actually a pouch, so you can really only slip a message inside or maybe some very skinny chocolates!

I'll be posting a picture of a demo project for the second template, which is a bit more of a basket, very soon :0)
