

Mini Milk Carton Advent Calendar

I love making advent calendars and those of you who have followed this blog for a while, will know that I've created one or two over the years. Check back over the blog posts if you would like to have a look.

This year's advent is using the freebie template posted on the site the other day. Use the smallest mini milk cartons to make a cute hanging advent calendar, just perfect for small treats and sweets in the period up to Christmas.

Stamp some numbers for the fronts of the cartons and hang them on a piece of string with mini pegs. If you don't have number stamps, check the Free Stuff pages, for some printable numbers which you can use.

I think this makes a lovely homemade project which anyone would love to open!
What do you think?