

Happy Halloween Card

I just received a lovely photo from England of my niece all dressed up for Halloween, which inspired me to take a few minutes to make this card. Halloween is such a big occasion over there, as it is in the US It is a bit late to send her anything now but it will probably go with all the other things that get made as demos and never get used. Such is the life of being involved in creative pursuits I suppose!

Anyway, this simple card has been made using the Halloween Freebie Digital images and words (now available as a purchase download) and the downloadable Boutique Card Template. I've raised the front up on foam pads to give dimension and coloured in the images with markers. The awning uses the free backing paper (still available) and I've used a silver pen to outline the window and door. Happy Halloween to those that celebrate this occasion!

Copyright Mementoes In Time 2011