

Gingerbread Christmas Tags

Day 3 of our series 24 Days of Christmas and my kids are getting very excited about everything already...so no news there 😊

In the quest to keep them amused in the long stretch up to Christmas Day, I've given in and bought them some cookie cutters. These were upmarket ones which put a pattern on the front as well and I have to say they were actually worth the money.

My eldest has decided to make hundreds of them (hmm..sounds expensive.) and give them to her friends as gifts. I have to say, they look quite cute, when you tie them up in a bag, so I have designed some little tags to use with them and these are the next item in our series of 24 Days of Christmas projects. I've dusted mine with some red chalk and added some buttons to my gingerbread man using some stick on gems.
